

National Women’s Law Center— To illustrate why the federal courts, and battles over judicial nominations, matter so much to women, the Center recently launched its “Watching the Courts” project in which it is preparing and disseminating periodic reports on noteworthy decisions addressing women’s legal rights, such as the right to privacy and the right to choose. To read the first installment of the Center’s “Watching the Courts” report, click here.