No Joke" TV Ad Makes Debut

On November 16, the Center for Reproductive Rights launched the first ad on healthcare and abortion to national television, on the Hill, and to thousands of supporters online. Our campaign, "No Abortion Ban," was a response to the Stupak amendment and puts forth a simple principle: When you need medical care, your insurance should be there to pay for it. During the next several weeks, the Center will keep pushing forward with its campaign as the Senate debates its healthcare bill. Watch the video online at: <http://www.noabortionban.org>.
